Guests Meet Coming, Going

By Marie McNair

COCKTAIL PARTIES are in gardens these early days of summer.

Yesterday, Col. and Mrs. Walter Bryte who've been away almost six months cruising Florida waters on their boat, gave a party to see their old friends again. Mrs. George Bean entertained Mrs. McNair at cocktail time in her Georgetown garden, and as they all have mutual friends, it was a case of guests meeting each other coming and going.

Edgar Morris who was at the bankers' convention at the Greenbriar at White Sulphur, was at both parties with his sister, Mary, and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Edgar Morris Jr. from Columbia, S. C., who are visiting him for a week or so. Rose Zalles went first to the Bryte's, so did Bill and Ellen Lee and Larry and Achsah Smith.

For baseball fans, the Bryte's No. 1 guest would have been Lou Boudreau, handsome manager of the Kansas City baseball team who played Washington yesterday and lost. He came along to the party with Meade and Claire Patrick.

The Korean Ambassador, Chan Yang, was there, telling his friends that Mme. Yang is getting a real welcome in Honolulu, on her first visit there in four years.

The Australian Ambassador, Sir Percy Spender came, and early callers were the German Ambassador, Heinz Krehler and Mrs. Morris Cafritz.

Mrs. Joe Loutzenheiser brought her good-looking son, Joe Jr. and Mrs. Loutzenheiser, visitors from Florida, with her. Lt. Gen. and Mrs. Charles P. Cabell who've been out-of-town and missed were there, too.
